Berger-Levrault, leader in software publishing, continues its international development by signing of a partnership with the Australian company Atturra

The Berger-Levrault group continues its international development with the distribution of its Infosilem offer dedicated to higher education institutions throughout Australia and New Zealand.

The editor announces the signature of a partnership with Atturra, a leading technology services company in the conception, implementation, and maintenance of IT solutions. Atturra will distribute in Australia and New Zealand the Infosilem solutions to support universities and other higher education institutions in the optimization of course and event scheduling.

Berger-Levrault's Infosilem software empowers these institutions to optimize the creation of course schedules, in addition simplifying the management and reservation of space (classrooms, meeting rooms, sports facilities, and so on) on campus.

Higher education institutions benefit from automated and streamlined course schedule creation, while efficiently managing all event bookings and space usage across campus. Infosilem solutions include features such as course demand analytics and advanced reporting that ensure quality scheduling and successful student registration.

As the first distribution partner for Berger-Levrault's Infosilem solutions in Australia, Atturra will help institutions define their needs and successfully deploy the software.

"We are absolutely thrilled to be working with Atturra. Their understanding of the market, their strong local footprint, the extremely high level of competency demonstrated by their staff and our shared values are key factors that bode well for our combined forces to establish a strong presence in the Australian & New Zealand territory."

Tugdual Le Bouar, Chief Operating Officer of the Berger-Levrault Group

"In seeking partners, Atturra looks for vendors with the same philosophies and vision as our own, placing clients and users central to our approach, and this is what makes Berger-Levrault a perfect fit."

Mark Dacey, GM Education - Business Applications, Atturra
